

WINTER WHIMSY by Joan ., a tenant living at Oak Meadows Senior Living

On Easter in Minnesota, we received 6 inches of snow. April 12, 2020*

Humanly speaking, I will confess that, upon opening the blinds this morning, my reaction was not "Alleluia". Instead I blurted, "O! Ish! The following is my "O! Ish!" put into rhyme, hopefully, to brighten your day.

Winter wonders of creation.
you've become an aggravation!
You've overplayed,
you've ruined the scene.
Your tired charms
have lost their sheen.

And so, Greedy One,
take heed.
Spring is here,
and will succeed.
Yes, I know
this morning
you look plush,
But by noon,
you'll be slush!

When I was very young my dad told me, "Follow the geese. When they are gathering to leave, you know it's Fall. And when you hear them again, Spring is back". I heard the geese last week. Alleluia!
